Background

Genuine Genius offers services to Educational Institutes. This software is designed to improve the Voucher Management System used to distribute vouchers to eligible candidates.

Application Brief / Need

This application belongs to the Education domain. USAF application is used to distribute the voucher to the eligible candidate. This application has parser which parses the eligibility XML file, and stores the related data into the database. Eligible candidate can take transcender pre-certification and practice exam. If a candidate passes the exam with valid scores, then a certificate number is sent to the candidate. This certificate number is used for voucher redemption from the application. This voucher number is then used for the actual exam.

Benefits / Value Proposition

This application has improved the accuracy and performance of the old Voucher Management System. With this new application, report generation and search for specific voucher number has become very easy.
